At yesterday morning's service Rev. Jenkins took as his text Mathew 27:24, and John 18:14. He drew attention to Pilate and Caiaphas as being representatives of the great world-forces which were arrayed against the Christ. Calvary was no accident in the moral government of the world and Caiaphas when he uttered those remarkable words, the truth of which he himself did not approximately understand, was but the spokesman of earthly wisdom and compromise; it was not expediency but an eternal purpose that determined that one should suffer for the people. Cross of the world's redemption. Let us then see what lessons we can learn from the action of Calaphas and Pilate, and friends in this city in company for the crucifixion is not an isolated incident in history; it has become a moral judgment of all times and all men. Pilate could have sung as lustily as any soldier of today, "Let Me Like a Soldier Fall," yet with all the power of Rome at his back he qualled before a cowardly mob, which could not turn his helpless prisoner one hairsbreadth from the way of truth. Moral courage is the great need of the present day. The world is a great deceiver, but it is not easily deceived and it will sooner or later tear away the mask from the frequently during the day. God on Sunday and serves the devil the rest of the week, The greatest enemy of the church of Christ is not the man who says "There is no God," but he who says there is a God and lives as if there were no God. The historian Froude says of one great statesman that he believed in God in a commonplace kind of way. What our religion wants is men so thoroughly in love with their Christ that they stand firm whoever wavers, who are ready to storm the fort regardless of wounds, who can trample without a scruple upon their own glory, who attach themselves with all the passion of their souls to a losing cause which has parted with everything save honor, who consent not to succeed if to succeed means to compromise the truth. Rev. Jenkins preached a Welsh sermon to a large congregation at the eve-

Among the Other Churches.

Rev. David Jones, pastor of the First Welsh Congregational church, South Main avenue, occupied the pulpit of the Olyphant Congregational church yesterday morning and evening. Rev. A. L. Ramer was called home from the convention of the Lutheran Ministerium, now in session at Easton, Pa., to officiate at the funeral of the late William Preissel on Saturday afternoon. He has returned again to Easton, and in consequence there were no services in St. Mark's Lutheran church yesterday. The members of the Panooka tribe of Red Men, together with a number of visiting brethren, attended services at the Sumner Avenue Presbyterian church last evening, when one of their number, Rev. Edward Howell, preached the sermon. Miss Via Jones sang a solo during the service. Rev. Harry Dougherty, of Shickshinney, occupied the pulpit of the Plymouth Congregational church yesterday morning and evening, and pleased two large congregations. At the Simpson Methodist Episcopa church last evening, Rev. H. C. McDermott preached a special sermon to the members of the Woman's Home Missionary society, who attended in a body. Special music was rendered by the choir.

Rev. James Benninger last evening preached the first of a series on the 'Life and Character of Samson," at the Embury Methodist Episcopal church. The sermon was based on an analysis of the man, and incidents in his career Rev. S. F. Mathews again tendered his resignation last evening to the members of the First Baptist church, to take effect the first of September. He desires to relinquish his pastoral duties for a much needed rest. A memorial service was held at the Jackson Street Baptist church last evening in memory of their late deacon, John Dawes. A number of the members spoke during the service, Overcome by Heat.

Miss Winnie McTiernan, aged 16 years, an employe at the Keystone laundry, 114 South Main avenue, was overcome by the heat while at work Saturday morning. She was engaged at one of the laundry machines, when she fell from her chair in an unconscious condition.

Restoratives were applied and physician was summoned, and in a short time she revived and was taken to her home on Luzerne street. Miss McTiernan had been drinking ice water

Sessions of the Cymanfa.

The sessions of the Cymanfa, held in the Bellevue Welsh Calvanistic Methodist church, Saturday and yesterday, were attended by large assemblages of people, many of whom came from the neighboring towns and cities. The business of the conference was conducted on Saturday morning, and the ordination of Rev. R. O. Hughes, of Edwardsdale, occurred at the afternoon session.

The charge on the nature of the church was delivered by Rev. H. W. Griffiths, of Plymouth, and the questions on the confession of faith were asked by the Rev. John R. Evans, of Philadelphia. The devotional exercises were led by Rev. L. H. R. Roberts, of North Scranton, and the ordination prayer was made by Rev. W. E. Morgan, of West Scranton, and the charge to the candidate was made by Rev. R. T. Roberts, of Wilkes-Barre.

Welsh sermons were delivered in the evening by Rev. John Williams, of Slatington, and Rev. David Pritchard, of Wales, father of David Pritchard, secretary of the national eisteddfod. Both were eloquent and convincing discourses. Yesterday morning the sermons were delivered by Rev. R. T. Roberts, of Wilkes-Barre and Rev. S. T. Jones, of Rhyl, North Wales, and in the afternoon Rev. E. L. Hughes, of West Bangor, spoke in Welsh, and Rev. Richard T. Jones, D. D., of Philadelphia, spoke in English. All of these sermons were uplifting and filled with much zeal and enthusiasm. The concluding service was held last evening, when Rev. John R. Evans, of Philadelphia and Rev. S. T. Jones, of North Wales, preached in Welsh. The latter's discourse was one of the best ever heard in this city, and he made a very favorable impression. A number of the visitors spoke in different West and North Scranton churches during the day.

Joe Strucka, of Keyser avenue, had his head badly battered on Saturday, while engaged in a fight on the Back road. No arrests have as yet been made. Dr. Brennan was called to attend him. Blick, of Frink street, was accidentally shot by a companion on Saturday, while the latter was carelessly handling a flobert rifle. The ball entered the boy's leg, and an X-rays will have to be used to locate the bullet. His condition is somewhat critical.

Events of This Evening. There will be an important meeting of St. Brenden's council, No. 342, Young Men's Institute, at their rooms this evening. All members are requested to be present. The annual ball of the Columbia Hose company, No. 5, will be held this even-ing in Music hall, which has been claborately decorated for the event. The members of the Scranton Choral society will meet for rehearsal in St. David's hall this evening, and all members are requested to be present. The Men's league of the Plymouth Congregational church will meet this

Will Soon Begin to Pave.

From what can be learned, the work of paving South Main avenue from Oxford street to Hampton street will be commenced on June 2. Thirty carloads of brick have already been placed along day and Friday evenings, June 26 and the sides of the street, and the stone for the concrete base is being prepared at Contractor M. H. Dale's farm in the Keyser valley.

The payement is badly needed and will be a great benefit to that part of the town. Much credit for the culmination of this project can be given to T. Fellows Mason, who has worked for this improvement for a number of years.

Alleged Shooting Affray.

A wild rumor was circulated Satur-day night to the effect that there had been a shooting affray in the 1900 block on Jackson street, and when Patrolmen Mathews and McDonald and Constable Timothy Jones investigated, they learned the circumstances. Joe Gilbin and his brother had quarreled over money matters, and the former struck the latter, and, it was alleged, knocked him off the porch of the louse. Joe was arrested and fined $15 in police court yesterday morning, which he paid.

Peculiarly Sad Death.

Too Great a Risk. In almost every neighborhood someone has died from an attack of colic or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept at hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take. Funeral of John Dawes. Services over the remains of the late John Dawes were held on Saturday afternoon at the family residence on North Sumner avenue, and at the Jackson Street Baptist church, and were largely attended. The pastor, Rev. Thomas de Gruchy conducted the services, assisted by the Rev. S. F. Mathews, pastor of the First Baptist church. The services were attended by members of the Sons of St.

George and the Knights of Malta. The pall-bearers were selected from representatives of the church and the lodges, and included Richard Nicholls, William Thomas, James Smith, William Wiley, William O. Jenkins and George Coombs. Interment was made
